

Courses Description
Bachelor Degree in Social Work

(3 credit hrs) Introduction to Social Work 2701101
Understanding the history of social work profession. Other topics include the philosophy, principles and ethics of social work, as well as areas of social work practice. The course also introduces students to the field of social work as a profession with definite linkages to the field of social welfare institutions.

Human Development (3 credit hrs) 2701104
Conceptualizing intellectual, physical and emotional issue related to human development across life cycle. Identifying what interventions are most appropriate requires understanding the timing and nature of development over the life course. Student will have the opportunity to examine issues related to individual development through course readings, lectures, assignments, and class activities.

(3 credit hrs) Social Planning and Social Policy 2701112
Introducing basic principles, techniques, and processes of social planning. In addition, this cause will introduce basic concepts and models of social policy, some social legislations such as, social security, social development, regarding family and elderly care will be discussed, students are also requested to present an assignment on actual cases.

(3 credit hrs) Social Statistics 2701121
Implementing basic statistical strategies in the field of Social Work to enable students to use and apply basic statistical procedures, including descriptive statistics, frequency distribution, charts, and measures of central tendency, hypothesis testing, correlation coefficient, analysis of variance, and other statistical tests and their applications.

(3 credit hrs) Practice Theories in Social Work 2701122
Introducing major theories and models of practice in the field of social work. Students are encouraged to apply theories and models on the Jordanian context, and perform one or more assignments.

Skills for Generalist Social Work (3 credit hrs) 2701131
This course will provide students with the concept of social service, and role of, social works at the there of intervention individual, group, and community.

(3 credit hrs) Social Work with Individuals 2701202
Students are expected to master generic interviewing. An assessment and intervention skills for use primarily in direct practice with individual cases. Students will be also exposed to the code of ethics in social work, including needed skills for its successful application.

(3 credit hrs) Group Work 2701203
Introducing basic group work knowledge, skills, and dynamics. Special emphasis will be placed on forming groups within a special population, such as elderly people, disabled people, and abused children.

(3 credit hrs) Research Methods in Social Work 2701211
Understanding the concept of social research, as well as its principles, characteristics, stages, including its tools and methods by introducing students to basic methods in designing social research, including identifying research problem, importance, justifications, literature review, hypothesis, and choosing the appropriate statistical method in order to come out with data, then arrive to results and recommendations.

Community Problems (3 credit hrs) 2701210
This cause will discuss all the community problems, its trends, its importance and its importance and its influence or individual, or group, or society; some theoretical prospecting will be used for analysis.

Ethical Practice in Social Work (3 credit hrs) 2701212

This course is designed to provide students with different basic ethics needed for social work practice. The course also concentrates on basic skills and principles needed for providing help and social intervention, such as ways of interaction with client, leadership and guidance roles, establishing a successful professional relationship. This course is both theoretical and practical.

Communication Skills in Social Work Practice 2701213
(3 credit hrs)

Preparing students in basic social work skills at the individual level. These skills are to be learned in a clinical design emphasizing experiential learning, feedback, and critical review of students own performance. Students will also master generic interviewing skills for use primarily in direct practice. Extensive use will be made of role-play simulations, audio/video tapes analyses, and feedback in the context of learning group. Active participation of students is required.

(3 credit hrs) Voluntary Social Work 2701220

Dealing with different topics related to volunteerism. Major topics include recruitment, interviewing, screening, training, providing work description, motivation, and termination. Identifying advantages of voluntary work and its effects on micro, medial, and macro levels. Other obstacles which encounter volunteerism will be also identified.

(3 credit hrs) Field Training (1) 2701223

Applying theoretical knowledge in social work into practice, through field visits and work in organizations, communities, and social care centers providing social services. Students are expected to perform 250 field hours in different areas of social work.

(3 credit hrs) Social Work Texts in English 2701261

Introducing students to contemporary social work literature in English language. Students will have the chance to study core principles and terminology in social work. Besides, they will be required to refer to academic journals and resources and to use them in their study and research.

(3 credit hrs) Research Design and Application 2701321

Training students on the application of social research on a phenomenon related to social work, and providing students with practical skills using the Statistical Package for the Social Sciences (SPSS).

- (3 credit hrs) Community Organizing 2701333
Providing an overview of the broad field of community organizing, examining various theoretical approaches and models of community organizing. Also the course explores skills, strategies, and knowledge needed by the community organizers. Students are asked to submit an assignment basing on actual cases.
- (3 credit hrs) Field Training (2) 2701334
An application of social work in a center or an institution specialized in providing social services in one area, such as health, elderly, youth, children, prisons, schools, and women. Students are expected to perform 250 field hours in a specialized area of social work related to their interest.
- (3 credit hrs) Social Work with Family 2701340
Providing conceptual and empirical foundation for assessment and intervention approaches for use by social workers practicing with families experiencing conflict. The course will examine some of the stressful issues facing families and children in contemporary Jordanian society. Some of the topics include employment, education, marriage, leisure time, domestic violence, serious illness, and family life and drugs.
- (3 credit hrs) Social Work with Childhood 2701357
Presenting a psychosocial view of childhood and adolescence, and trying to develop detailed assessment theories and skills that apply to direct children and adolescents. Also, it presents a critical examination of psychodynamic and social theories in light of research and current Jordanian realities. Students are expected to provide current practice examples for analysis and discussion.
- (3 credit hrs) Social Work with Addicts 2701358

(3 credit hrs) Disability and Habilitation 2701359
Understanding and analyzing different types of disability, including definition, warning indicators, diagnosis, and intervention with different disabilities. Moreover, presenting theoretical and field training related to different types of habilitation and rehabilitation, including social medical and psychological rehabilitation. The course includes field trips to some of specialized disability institutions, Students are asked to submit assignments about that institution.

(3 credit hrs) Field Training (3) 2701435
An application of social work in an area related to students' interest or concern. Students are expected to perform 250 field hours in a specialized area of social work related to their interest. Students are expected to submit a report of their work that should be defended by a committee from instructors in the department that is headed by the supervisor of the student.

(3 credit hrs) Crises and Disasters Management 2701444
Focus in various causes, consequences of crises and disasters. Student will master basic knowledge, skills and strategies used under such circumstances. Identifying the concepts of disaster and crisis, and understanding behavioral reactions of people who encounter a crisis or a disaster.

(3 credit hrs) Evaluation of Social Projects 2701450
Providing students with the nature and concept of the evaluation process. Concentration on major models of evaluation, which enables students to evaluate the success and effectiveness of its goals. Students are expected to evaluate a project of interest.

(3 credit hrs) Medical Social Work 2701451
Providing theoretical knowledge and field training needed from social workers interested in working with medical settings, including the role of social workers in hospitals and in different medical centers. The course also includes; dealing with medical beliefs from a cultural perspective, which explains resorting to different kinds of folk medicine, unhealthy behavior, the doctor-patient interaction, and the relationship between members of the medical staff. Special emphasis is given to the topic of medical compliance.

and psychological rehabilitation skills that prepare residents to adapt to the external social environment after being discharged.

Graduation Project (3 credit hrs) 2701460

In this course students are trained in the process of research, skills and knowledge they studied and then they are asked to submit the research project at the end of the course.

Social Work Practice in Medical Organizations 2701461
(3 credit hrs)

The role of social worker in formal medical organizations, mainly hospitals and clinics. Special concern will be given to needed social work skills to deal with psycho-social problems facing members of the medical staff, medical administrators, and patients and their families.

Social work with Psychological Disorders (3 credit hrs) 2701462

Understanding and analyzing warning indicators, diagnostic skills, and treatment of mental disorders, such as schizophrenia and depression. In addition to training students to be part of a medical team that works with mental disorders, including psychiatrists and physicians.